

PRODUCTION AND OUTREACH

Corinne Ajemian and Mary Burke tape the first 'Culinary Arts' show

The BHS media department students have jumped off to a quick start this semester in developing new shows for airing on Channel 22. A new series called "Culinary Arts" debuted last month. It features student chefs putting together quick and easy recipes live in the studio.

Peter Stewart taped another show in his series "I've Got Music in Me". The program featured an a capella singing group called the Dell Bells, composed of students from Hamilton Wenham High School.

Members of the singing group the "Dell Bells" perform in the BevCam studio

Walt and Kim Allyn accept recognition on behalf of BevCam from BHS

At the televised November 14 School Committee meeting, Beverly School Superintendent Dr. Marie Galinski and Committee President Maria Decker recognized BevCam for its recent donation of new HD cameras, hard drives and accessories to the BHS media department. This equipment will be used by students to produce programming for Channel 22.

On Sunday, November 25, BevCam again presented a live airing of the annual Holiday Parade through the streets of downtown Beverly. Volunteers joined BevCam staff at our usual viewing post in front of City Hall. Ray Novack was this year's Grand Marshall.

Al Temkin and Tina Cassidy host the Annual Holiday Parade.

Barbara Alex continues to host her Sunday Jazz Sessions at Chianti Restaurant. These sessions are intended for up and coming musicians and singers to develop their skills in front of live audiences in a real nightclub setting.

Barbara Alex hosts Sunday Jazz Sessions at Chiantis once a month

Meg Pascucci hosts the BCOA's workshop on effective outreach at Danversport Yacht Club

On November 9, The Beverly Council on Aging gave a workshop at Danversport to other Senior centers, showcasing their "What's Working-Effective Practices" award, given by the Aging Network Collaborative, for its volunteer outreach in producing the "Livin' the Good Life" show at BevCam.

Ricardo Barreto, Community Partners Consultants, addresses the group

On November 14, Montserrat College of Art, in partnership with Beverly Main Streets and the City of Beverly, gave a presentation showcasing their “Our Town” grant from the National Endowment for the Arts aimed at creating a cultural district in downtown Beverly.

On November 28, Fred Hammond took his “Reflections” show on the road to the Herrick House, where he gave a wonderful presentation on the “Early Settlements of Salem”.

Fred Hammond addresses an appreciative audience at the Herrick House

BevCam reached an all-time high in membership on November 19, when its membership reached 229. New members include student member Charles Coulbourn, and individual member Chris Dugan; also Heather Woolsey, organization member from Beverly Main Streets and Betsy DiMeo, a new BCOA member.