

PRODUCTION AND OUTREACH

BevCam tapes the Centerville Improvement Society debates

Another "Conversations with the Candidates" session gets taped in the studio

As always, BevCam was extremely busy during this year's election season. We conducted interviews in our studios during our "Conversations with the Candidates" series with 21 candidates vying for public office. We also taped debates and forums sponsored by the Beverly Police and Fire Departments, the Centerville Improvement Society, the Cove Community Center, and Beverly Main Streets' 30+ Main group; the last event was also broadcast live.

Matt Pujo interviews Lee Dellicker of Windover Development

Matt Pujo taped another show in his series "No Town for Old Buildings". He interviewed Lee Dellicker of Windover Development. They discussed the issues surrounding the balance between new development and conservation of historical buildings.

Beverly High School media students are in high gear this semester. They plan to tape 9 program series, including 5 new productions. Students often use BevCam's edit stations during after school hours or when theirs are fully occupied.

Media students use BevCam's edit stations assisted by Robert Dokes.

Mark Layman captures the action.

Eric Campbell and Andy Williamson do play by play

Jay Norton and Alex Salucco provide color

Robert Dokes tapes a special Coach's version for Dan Bauer

BevCam has been covering all the Beverly High School football games this fall. Under the careful supervision of Robert Dokes, a group of stalwart volunteers has taped each game and provided play by play and color commentary. Thanks a lot to Mark Layman, Alex Salucco, Jay Norton, Eric Campbell and Bill Williamson for a job well done.

We forgot to include a note in our last report about BevCam coverage of this year's Harborfest. Sorry for the omission; we will have a photo from the event in our November report.

On October 8, BevCam attended another Beverly Community Council meeting, an excellent venue for outreach to the community.

Walt Kosmowski attended an Intern Workshop at Endicott College on October 3, accompanied by our Fall intern Lauren Maggioli. Lauren is currently editing a documentary she taped at the World Championship Morgan Horse competition in Oklahoma this month.

The studio stayed busy throughout the month of October. Peter Stewart continued to tape his "I have Music in Me" show featuring his musical students. Fred Hammond taped another of his "Reflections" shows. And BevCam assisted Jason Parisella in taping some on-site video for his "Jason's in the House" program.

And finally, BevCam board member, producer and volunteer, Kim Stone passed away. Our heartfelt condolences to her family, husband Richard and son Zach.