

PRODUCTION AND OUTREACH

Andi Freedman and Al Temkin at the "anchor desk" on election night

On election night, November 5, BevCam provided minute by minute coverage of voting results from throughout the city. As each precinct reported to City Hall, the results were phoned in to our studio by intern Lauren Maggioli and relayed to our on-air hosts.

During the week of November 11, BevCam taped interviews held by the School Committee in the BHS library with the final four candidates for School Superintendent.

Beverly High School Principal Sean Gallagher has begun taping a new series entitled “Schoolhouse Talk”. The fun and informative show features interviews with students, faculty and administration on all aspects of life at BHS.

BHS media students have ramped up their production activities considerably this semester. Regular series broadcast on Channel 22 include: The Culinary Project, BHS Now, Friday Morning Pre-Recorded, Writers' Corner, Skit Chat, 2Kool 4 Skool, Far Out and Fathom News.

After about a year’s worth of planning and development, BevCam’s new website went live on line the last week of November...check it out at www.bevcam.org.

We are saddened by the passing away on November 16 of producer Ted Josephs. He will be missed by the many fans of his long-running series “Beverly’s Times Past”, which still airs on BevCam.

BevCam staff attended a North Shore Access meeting at the Peabody local access studio. These sessions give us a chance to share technical updates, best practices and studio management with other media centers.

New members for November include: individual Luc Van Anderlecht; Molly Benson, new organizational membership under “Preserving Beverly’s Neighborhoods”; and new family membership for Kelly Noonan, Patrick Noonan, Ken Noonan and Roland Sanglap.
