

BevCam Executive Director's Report
For the Month of August 2017

PRODUCTION AND OUTREACH

Peter Stewart and Meg Hosler on set in front of the green screen

Former “Producer of the Year” Peter Stewart continues to amaze with his media production talents. Still taping his “I’ve Got Music in Me” show, he has produced an ambitious video on world peace and is working on another, and recently taped a music video called “She’s a Mom” featuring local mom Meg Hosler.

The “Amazingly Autistic” cast and crew have been amazingly productive lately. This past month they changed format and taped an interview with Councilor-at-Large candidate Julie Flowers.

Matt Richardson of Amazingly Autistic interviews Councilor-at-Large candidate Julie Flowers

Alex Salucco interviews Almir Alshrafi as Robert Dokes checks audio levels

Former Beverly High School media student and UMass Lowell graduate in Journalism/Communications, Alex Salucco, returned recently to tape a segment for BevCam in his passion, sports broadcasting. He did a pre-season interview with head Football Coach Andrew Morency and a few of the key players.

BevCam Studio associate Chris Harvey rocks out with “Froggy and the Friendship” at Homecoming as the crew and volunteers give their approval

For the 15th consecutive year, BevCam taped Homecoming festivities at Lynch Park. The events included Tiny Tots Day, Lobster Fest, Senior Day and Lip Sync, with various fun activities and bands entertaining the public. BevCam now airs the events “live” on Channel 8 since we installed a live drop in the band shell.

Walt Kosmowski interviews Carol Pallazolla from Element Care on North Shore Journal

On August 29th, Walt Kosmowski interviewed Carol Pallazolla of Element Care on “North Shore Journal”. Element Care adopts a holistic approach to caring for the elderly, treating the whole person, not just their symptoms.